EXHIBIT "A"
Project Sterling
Phase I - Communication

Introduction

Monroe County Government has embarked on their quest to establish The Florida Keys as the leader in organizational performance excellence. The ADS partnership offers the unique opportunity to facilitate, evaluate, and enable county government to establish and maintain integrated systematic processes throughout all county departments in all locations – from the Florida Bay to Key West.

The ultimate goal of Project Sterling is to enable the Leadership to merge the principles, values and work processes into the Sterling Quality Criteria for Organizational Performance Excellence and cascade those approaches and best practices throughout the County on a continual and consistent basis. This proactive streamlined approach has been identified as critical to providing high quality and equally accessible services to all of the 81,236 city and county residents along the 220 miles of islands.

Scope

Monroe County desires to contract with Carroll Consulting Inc to provide organizational and management consulting services for the development and implementation of the Sterling core competencies throughout all departments within the government of Monroe County and the Florida Keys, and shall be responsible for all the deliverables of Phase I – Communication:

The orientation and familiarization of the 2006 Sterling Award Criteria shall be presented in a managerial cascading methodology. These presentations include an overview of all seven criteria followed by a baseline survey – “Are We Making Progress?”. The survey is designed to determine the different levels of deployment of existing processes as they generally relate to the criteria, segmented by employee groups, departments and locations. Each survey will be administered at the end of each familiarization presentation.

The purposes of the presentations are to achieve an awareness of the journey and provide basic understanding of the criteria and the process of the “Project Sterling” effort prior to beginning the business assessment. Three levels of presentation will be custom tailored to address the issues and concerns of each group: Leadership Level, Managerial Level and General Employee Level. It is anticipated that all employees shall attend the presentations and will be scheduled in the Upper, Middle and Lower Keys governmental locations and offered 3-4 times daily for 3 days to provide maximum opportunity to attend.

The consultants shall work with the County to identify the Sterling Advisory Board, as champions and senior leaders of the process. The purpose of the Board will be to receive and review the key deliverables of “Project Sterling” throughout the process and shall meet at least quarterly to assure alignment and accountability of the work.

- Champion Training – 1 course
- Management Overview – 4 hour course in 3 locations
- Staff sessions – 3-4 employee groups per delivery day at 3 different locations
